ALEXANDRIA, (Va.) — The National Society of Accountants suggests that professionals who are planning to take the IRS Special Enrollment Examination (SEE) to become an Enrolled Agent this year should consider attending the Enrolled Agent Exam Review and Income Tax Refresher Course offered by the National Society of Accountants (NSA).

The course will be held August 10-13, 2009, at the Town and Country Resort in San Diego, CA, just before the NSA Annual Meeting & Expo begins in the same location.

The SEE exam is difficult, and this intensive three-day course covers everything on the exam, offering an excellent opportunity to prepare. All facets of the exam will be covered, including test-taking tips, memory devices, planning tips, and war stories to help better understand the material. Comprehensive handouts with numerous test questions will be provided to reinforce all learning concepts.

The course is also the perfect staff training vehicle; the equivalent of tax boot camp that will get your new hires immediately up to speed on all facets of tax law.

The course will be taught by John Everett of Virginia Commonwealth University and Bill Duncan of Arizona State University, two college professors known for their informative and entertaining classroom teaching. Both have received awards for their teaching excellence, and both will keep you laughing as you master detail after detail after detail.

Attendees will earn 24 hours of CPE credit for attending the course.
