Mobile CSTM Provides Tax and Accounting Professionals with Anytime, Anywhere Access

Sep. 08, 2010

The Tax & Accounting business of Thomson Reuters has announced the release of Mobile CS, a first-of-its-kind iPhone app for tax and accounting professionals. Using advanced mobile application technology, this comprehensive practice management tool extends the reach of Practice CS from desktop to iPhone, giving more than 60,000 Practice CS users the ability to access key firm, staff, and client data anytime, anywhere. Future Mobile CS updates will include access to additional CS Professional Suite and Enterprise Suite functions and data, enabling tax and accounting professionals to manage their firm from home or on the road. Development of the Mobile CS app for other mobile platforms, such as BlackBerry and Android, is currently being considered.

“The release of Mobile CS is one of many apps in development by the Tax & Accounting business of Thomson Reuters as part of our broader commitment to being an end-to-end solution provider for tax and accounting professionals,” said Teresa Mackintosh, CPA.CITP, general manager and senior vice president, Americas – Professional, Tax & Accounting, Thomson Reuters. “This innovative communication tool allows tax and accounting professionals to adeptly interact with their key data in the field, after hours, or whenever it fits their schedule. The buzz around Mobile CS has increased tremendously, because our customers realize that being more efficient means being more profitable. Our goals are to help our customers be more efficient, and to leverage the technology they use every day, so they can better serve their own clients. We realize that mobile computing and the use of devices like the iPhone are transforming how professionals do business,” said Mackintosh.
