AccuCode, Inc. (www.AccuCode.com) has announced the start of its new referral-based program for the software developer's AO: Rapid Inventory system, which is the only cloud-based inventory management program for QuickBooks that includes options for fully-integrated RFID and barcode scanning.

Designed as an add-on to enhance inventory capabilities for businesses using QuickBooks Pro, Premier or Enterprise, AO: Rapid Inventory runs in an online environment and integrates fully with the accounting software, giving users the ability to securely access and manage inventory processes from any location. It includes multi-warehouse, multi-location, lot number tracking and optional bar code scanning and printing,

"The new affiliate program is designed to for professionals and consultants who work with small businesses to help them be more productive," AccuCode's marketing director Lizelle van Vuuren told CPA Practice Advisor. "Many businesses need stronger inventory management capabilities than is standard in QuickBooks. By giving them tools to better track and manage their inventories, businesses and their accountants have more accurate data to use in planning, budgeting and growing."

There is no cost to become an affiliate, and each affiliate earns a recurring 30 percent commission on the subscription-based online program. Affiliates also receive access to official AO: Rapid Inventory marketing materials, and are given a unique logo and hyperlink that ensures their referrals are tracked.

More information on the AO: Rapid Inventory Affiliate Program is at <http://www.rapidinventory.com/About-Us/affiliate-program.html>.
