e2b teknologies recently released the latest version of its accounts receivables collection software. The updated Anytime Collect 2.0.4 allows users to automate frequent tasks, such as sending emails and past due notices and setting alerts.

has leveraged customer feedback and real world scenarios to make our customers' collections activities even easier," said Lynne Henslee, President of e2b teknologies.

Other enhancements and features of Anytime Collect 2.0.4 include:

- User-defined calculations using customer account and invoice information
- Expanded Reason Codes for increased invoice tracking capability
- Additional information available for inclusion in credit and collections reporting and analysis
- Improved integration to accounting and ERP business systems

"The new features benefit not only our existing customers but it expands our opportunities for new license sales – especially for smaller companies with limited credit and collections staff who need this type of automation to reduce the order to cash payment cycle for their lean businesses," added Henslee.
