

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us firms successfully build their payroll services.

Taija Sparkman • Aug. 13, 2012

Thomson Reuters has announced it will hold two-day conferences to help accounting firms successfully build their payroll services.

Thomson Reuters' Payroll Summits will guide professionals through examining their current payroll services while creating plans to implement or build upon their current payroll processing services. Attendees will learn about available technology, best practices and strategic planning, as well as marketing strategies.

“Our users rely on us to be more than a software vendor,” he said. “They have come to expect thought leadership events that help them improve their businesses and better serve their clients. Our Partner Summits have resonated with customers, and I’m pleased that we’re able to build on that success with the new Payroll Summits.”

The Summit will take place September 26-27 in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, and October

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

“Advances in cloud computing technology, the increasingly complex payroll compliance and regulatory environment, and the inherent client “stickiness” that comes from delivering payroll services have made it an attractive proposition for more and more firms. It represents a big opportunity for those who are prepared to capitalize.”

Firm Management • Technology

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved