PHILADELPHIA — Grant Thornton LLP has relocated its Philadelphia office within Two Commerce Square at 2001 Market St. to floors 7 and 8. The total space leased is 62,948 square feet.

Today is the first day in the new office for Grant Thornton's 385 employees. The firm relocated from floors 28, 30, 31 and 32.

"This move reinforces our commitment to the continued growth of the firm's Philadelphia office," said Wayne Kaplan, office managing partner of Grant Thornton's Philadelphia practice. "Our new space offers a more efficient layout, access to natural light and more effective collaboration rooms that will allow us to better support Grant Thornton's people as they interact with our clients."

The new space is designed to support employee collaboration and innovation. All workspaces have access to natural light as well as modern conference and team rooms, which include the most current AV and video conferencing capabilities.

The new space is able to accommodate more than 450 employees and was designed to reduce Grant Thornton's carbon footprint. The newly renovated space is seeking LEED Silver certification.
