MILLIONS FILE RETURNS

For the 10th year in a row, Wolters Kluwer, CCH has been selected by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) for its comprehensive sales tax rate and taxability tables to help millions of taxpayers across the country prepare their tax returns. With access to updated information from thousands of tax jurisdictions provided by Wolters Kluwer, CCH, tax filers can determine whether they'll save more by deducting state and local sales taxes they've accrued during the year instead of taking standard or itemized tax deductions.

comprehensive tax calculation system combining leading tax rate and taxability content with jurisdiction boundary information and sophisticated logic. Additional information also comes from the powerful IntelliConnect tax and accounting research platform.

Wolters Kluwer, CCH tax data for state and local jurisdictions also supports the IRS's online Sales Tax Deduction Calculator – available to taxpayers for filing 2014 income tax returns. In addition, the company is also providing the IRS with data related to the taxability rules for more than 500 Bureau of Labor Statistics spending categories.

“The opportunity to continue our decade-long partnership with the IRS in providing superior sales tax research for the benefit of everyone filing tax returns is truly an honor,” said Renee Davis-Malott, Vice President, Sales – Global and National Accounts for Wolters Kluwer, CCH. “This recognition speaks volumes about our dedication to producing innovative corporate tax information solutions for our customers. It's a privilege to be chosen by the IRS again to support all taxpayers and professionals nationwide in making informed decisions.”
