In celebration of Women's History Month, the National Women's Business Council (NWBC) is kicking off the month with a story-telling project to highlight and share honest advice, important truths and inspiring stories from women entrepreneurs.

"Women are the fastest growing segment of business owners – yet we still lack the platform to truly share stories of both the growing pains and successes in starting a business," said Carla Harris, the Presidentially-appointed Chair of the NWBC. "In our experience, sharing lessons learned and best practices is both empowering and educational for aspiring entrepreneurs. Women shouldn't feel like they have to more stories of women in business,” said Amanda Brown, Executive Director of the NWBC, “#HerOwnBoss is a great opportunity to shine light on the amazing women entrepreneurs that have overcome their fears, share their lessons learned, and showcase how women can help other women in their entrepreneurial pursuits. We believe this role modeling will inspire more women to launch their own ventures.”
