ImagineTime, developer of time and billing software for over 20 years, has relaunched it's ImagineTime.com website. Key features of the site include a cleaner and more attractive design, enhanced search and navigation functionality, and optimization for mobile devices.

The redesigned website also introduces ImagineTime's new logo. The logo reflects the software company's vision for increased productivity and revenue as a result of users implementing ImagineTime's practice management suite of products. The site also includes training videos, product information and pricing, online remote support and collaboration portal. Many thanks to White Fox Studios of Asheville North Carolina for facilitating the new website design.

The new site will also provide social media integration and direct links to ImagineTime's Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, Blog and LinkedIn pages, where company and product updates appear on a regular basis.

"We are very proud of our new website and we hope it provides a useful, informative way for our clients and contacts to get to know ImagineTime and our products!"
