CPA

Practice Advisor

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

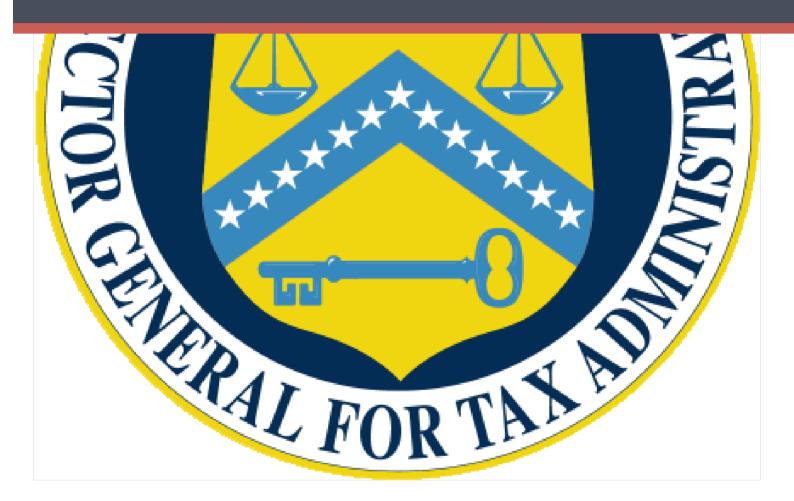

If you have any questions or need help you can email us abuse, and mismanagement concerning activities of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and related entities, and also protects the IRS against external attempts to corrupt...

Dec. 31, 2017

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

The Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration (TIGTA) announced that on January 1, 2018, James S. Jackson will assume the position of Acting Deputy Inspector General for Investigations (DIGI). Jackson has served as an executive in TIGTA's Office of Investigations since 2013 and will be replacing Timothy P. Camus, who will be retiring on December 30, 2017, after 32 years of Federal service.

"I thank Tim and am truly grateful for his many years of Federal service, especially for his service leading TIGTA's Office of Investigations," said J. Russell George, the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration, in announcing the appointment. "Tim's leadership was exemplary, and Jim Jackson will, I am sure, in like manner competently fulfill the duties of that leadership role," Inspector General George added. "Throughout his service at TIGTA, Jim has demonstrated the qualities

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us aspects of the system, particularly the confidentiality of taxpayer information," he said.

TIGTA's Office of Investigations investigates allegations related to fraud, waste, abuse, and mismanagement concerning activities of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and related entities, and also protects the IRS against external attempts to corrupt, threaten, or interfere with its employees. This mission is accomplished through proactive and reactive investigative programs.

The DIGI is a key position for TIGTA, as it oversees an organization of more than 390 employees in 66 locations throughout the United States and Puerto Rico.

Mr. Jackson has been a manager at TIGTA since 2006. He began his Federal career with the United States Air Force (USAF) in 1987. In 1993, he was selected for a special duty assignment with the USAF, Office of Special Investigations (OSI), where he completed the USAF Special Investigations Academy as a distinguished graduate and went on to serve as a special agent in OSI's Southeast Region. In 1997, Mr. Jackson transferred to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), Office of Inspector General (OIG), where he was instrumental in the creation of NASA OIG's cybercrime investigations capability, created an electronic case management system, developed agency policy, served as a headquarters desk officer, and was eventually promoted to the position of Resident Agent in Charge of the East Coast Region of NASA OIG's Computer Crimes Division. While at NASA OIG, Jim was also assigned to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Infrastructure Protection Center, where he led several high-level investigations involving network-based attacks against the United States.

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us