What's the one piece of technology that MOST helps you get through your normal workday?

"My laptop. My broadband card allows me to be online at all times during the day no matter where I am. I prefer e-mailing clients versus calling to allow clients to correspond with me when it is convenient to them."

What will be the biggest change over the next five years in the ways tax and accounting firms operate?

"Electronic workpapers have seemed to be a challenge for firms to implement the previous five years, and I believe it will continue for the next five years. Internal partner review, peer review and retention all factor into the applicability of electronic workpapers. Clients are clamoring for more electronic means to provide documentation, and we need to meet their expectations."

What Scott's peers had to say about him:

Scott is very involved with Junior Achievement and the FICPA. He is a bright, hardworking professional with excellent client relationship skills. His upbeat, positive attitude, entrepreneurial spirit and strong decision making abilities are attributes that have led to the success of SAS 70 Solutions. He is a born
