

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

FIRMS

30th anniversary of landmark event draws nearly 1,000 participants in National Harbor, MD

Oct. 29, 2010

WASHINGTON, D.C., October 29, 2010—Yesterday, the Tax & Accounting business of Thomson Reuters demonstrated the new Mobile CS smartphone application, new UltraTax CS enhancements, and collaboration capabilities of Accounting CS at its 30th Annual Users' Conference for Professional Tax and Accounting Firms.

“The customer base of the tax and accounting profession is beginning to see the impact of demographic shifts, as is the staff pool of the firm’s we serve today,” said Teresa Mackintosh, CPA.CITP, senior vice president and general manager, Americas—Professional. “Applications like Mobile CS show how we’re working to meet the demands of a new generation of tax and accounting professionals and clients who expect information to be available anytime, anywhere.”

In a joint keynote presentation to the nearly 1,000 participants, Mackintosh and Jon Baron, president, Americas, Tax & Accounting, discussed how mobile and cloud technology tools will be essential in the effort to make tax and accounting services relevant to a new generation of clients, as well as lowering operating costs, increasing productivity, and raising service levels.

Baron demonstrated the new Mobile CS application, showing how the new app gives Practice CS users access to key firm and client data on the go. He also indicated the future direction of a series of mobile technology advances the company has under development for clients of firms and alluded to how multi-touch technology, a staple of new devices, would begin to take shape in future development plans

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us system and the client's accounting system.

The professional firm conference began on Oct. 27 and includes three days of hands-on training, technology demonstrations, discussion of new ideas and insights in the tax and accounting profession, and workshops led by the profession's sharpest minds. The conference will help tax and accounting professionals gear up for the future—and earn thousands of combined hours of CPE credit along the way.

More information at CS.ThomsonReuters.com/UC.

Technology

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved