CCH's Most Popular Book Titles for Tax and Accounting Professionals Now Available on Desktop, Laptop, Mobile Devices

Nov. 16, 2010

RIVERWOODS, ILL – The most popular CCH books that tax and accounting professionals rely on for answers, guidance and insight are now easier than ever to access and read with CCH's new eBooks. The perfect complement to the same titles in print, CCH eBooks add new levels of convenience, mobility and productivity for professionals – whether at the office, or on the train. CCH, a Wolters Kluwer business, is a global leading provider of tax, accounting and audit information, software and services (CCHGroup.com).

“CCH is an integral part of our customers' workflow, which means we're as mobile as they are,” said CCH President and CEO Mike Sabbatis.

“Our new eBooks are part of our overall commitment to ensure that however professionals choose to work, CCH resources will be right there at their fingertips.”

Enhanced mobility is just one of the new benefits eBooks offer. The digital eBook format also increases productivity and speeds research time, with easy navigation and features enabling users to perform key word searches, bookmark frequently used references and drill deeper into research with embedded links.

“Our eBooks offer a new link to productivity and are designed to make professionals as efficient and effective as possible – wherever they are,” said Sabbatis.

Access to Instant Intelligence

Whether it's the 900-page CCH U.S. Master Tax Guide or a multi-volume publication, CCH eBooks are easily downloaded to desktop and laptop computers,
