SCREEN

Small and Lightweight Screen Ideal for On-the-Go Professionals

Feb. 16, 2011

LONG BEACH, Calif. – Feb. 15, 2011 – Epson today announced the ES1000 ultraportable tabletop projection screen designed for mobile professionals. The ES1000 features a unique one-piece design for quick and easy setup on virtually any size tabletop in less than 30 seconds, with a projected image of up to 50-inches diagonally.

“As the leader in projection, we are always striving to provide affordable, innovative products that make our customer’s lives easier,” said Jason Meyer, product manager, Epson America, Inc. “Whether walking across town, commuting by car or flying to your next destination, the ES1000 is the perfect traveling partner for road warriors needing an ultraportable screen that can go anywhere and be setup in seconds.”

The ES1000 is lightweight and travel-friendly, ideal for small meeting rooms where there isn’t enough room for a free standing screen, and designed to be easily transported between conference rooms or taken on the road. Weighing only 6.5 pounds and measuring 34.5-inches long, when closed the ES1000 forms its own carrying case and conveniently fits in an airplane overhead compartment. In addition, its bright white screen ensures vivid and clear presentations.

Availability and Support

The Epson ES1000 ultraportable tabletop projection screen is available for $129.99 through national resellers, pro audio/visual dealers, mail order, distribution and Epson's online store. The screen comes with a two-year limited warranty.
