CPA

Practice Advisor

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

Oct. 31, 2012

Thomson Reuters, which produces the CS Suite of software that many professioanl accountants use for tax, accounting and other financial services, has announced it will help its customers get back up and running if they have storm-related issues.

The company reched out to professionals in the Northeast to let them know that "if their firm was impacted by Hurricane Sandy and their offices are no longer functional, that a Disaster Recovery Service" is availale to help them get back up and running quickly.

Thomson Reuters customers can call 800-968-8900 to ask about the no-cost service options and resources. They can also visit the company's Disaster Recovery Assistance website.

Taxes • Technology

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us