On the third day of its annual user conference in San Diego, CCH has introduced the new periodical and e-journal, Global Tax Weekly – A Closer Look for up-to-date, insightful analysis of critical international tax developments impacting tax and finance executives and professionals around the world. Global Tax Weekly provides premier coverage and in-depth analysis from tax experts in more than 100 countries, and is delivered on CCH IntelliConnect and via Apple iPhone, iPad and Android mobile devices. CCH, a Wolters Kluwer business is a leading global provider of tax, accounting and audit information, software and services (CCHGroup.com).

“The global tax landscape is constantly shifting and tax executives and practitioners need to know what’s happening in different corners of the world that may impact their businesses or their clients,” said Michael Bell, Editor in Chief. “Global Tax Weekly – A Closer Look is an in-depth, current and insightful one-stop source for expert guidance on worldwide tax and financial developments – providing readers a competitive edge.”

Global Tax Weekly includes a broad array of analytical articles covering key tax topics and most industries. The publication is the first collaboration of CCH and BSI since Wolters Kluwer’s acquisition of BSI, a leading provider of timely international tax, business, legal and investment information. Bell is also the founder of BSI and brings decades of practical and unique international tax planning and compliance experience to each issue.

Each week, Global Tax Weekly organizes the latest global tax stories under headings covering a wide variety of industry sectors, such as financial institutions, automotive, aerospace, construction, energy, manufacturing and more. Also included are many feature articles with in-depth coverage of current developments written by leading international tax and legal experts. Weekly roundups of tax treaty developments, important new judgments and a calendar of upcoming tax
