

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

Taija Sparkman • Dec. 19, 2012

CCH, a Wolters Kluwer business, recently released its 2013 Fiscal Cliff Estimator, a tool to help taxpayers and their advisors prepare for possible outcomes of the fiscal cliff negotiations. CCH provides tax, accounting and audit information, software and services for tax, accounting and business professionals.

The Fiscal Cliff Estimator compares a taxpayer's tax liability for 2012 against the pending tax packages, such as tax proposals from the White House and Congress and the possible extension or expiration of the Bush-era tax cuts. The Estimator is to provide a better understanding of the possible outcomes of the fiscal cliff negotiations. The seamless integration makes it easier for taxpayers and practitioners to compare different scenarios.

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

“While everyone waits for news on fiscal cliff negotiations, CCH’s new Fiscal Cliff Estimator tool helps cut through all the uncertainty to paint a clearer picture of how certain scenarios may affect their tax returns,” said Cindy Kaplan, CCH Product Marketing Manager. “The Estimator is fully integrated with CCH’s latest projection and estimate data. It enables professionals to provide a tax planning advantage for their clients and also empowers individual taxpayers with an upper hand on research for planning ahead.”

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved