

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

Students from the University of Texas at Dallas won first place and received a $10,000 award when they won first place in the 2012 AICPA Accounting Competition in Washington, D.C.

Taija Sparkman • Dec. 19, 2012

The American Institute of CPAs recently announced the winners of the 2012 AICPA Accounting Competition in Washington, D.C. Students from the University of Texas at Dallas won first place and received a $10,000 award.

For this year's competition, teams from around the country had to advise a hypothetical presidential candidate on solutions for some of the nation's biggest economic concerns, including Social Security, the national deficit and income tax.

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

submitted by student teams around the country. The semifinalists submitted video proposals, which were posted on ThisWayToCPA.com for the public to vote on. The finalists were selected based on voter results and a review of an executive judging panel. During the finals, the three teams presented to a panel of judges and participated in a question and answer session.

Members of the winning team, named Working Capitol, are team captain, April Crawford, Shahrzad Azimi, Trey Sweeney, Samuel Teichelman and faculty advisor, John Barden. Second place went to students from Albion College who received a $5,000 award and students from North Carolina State University received the third place $2,500 award.

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved