The screenshot shows the ExpensifyHelp website interface. At the top left is the ExpensifyHelp logo with icons for a car, a fork and knife, and an airplane. To the right is a link to 'Return to Expensify.com'. Below the logo is a search bar and contact information: 'help@expensify.com' and 'sales@expensify.com'. There are links for 'Jobs' and 'About'. A 'Training' section lists 'Workshops' and 'Videos'. A 'Help' section lists 'Home', 'Getting Started', and 'Company Setup'. The main content area is titled 'Bill.com Integration'. It contains a paragraph explaining that companies on the Team and Corporate plans can integrate with Bill.com. Below this is a section titled 'Create the Bill.com Connection' with instructions on how to connect. A form titled 'Bill.com' has a radio button selected for 'Connect to Bill.com', a text input field containing 'expensify@bill.com', and an 'Update' button. There is also an option for 'Do not connect to Bill.com'. At the bottom of the form, a message states: 'All employee expense reports on this policy will now be submitted to this Bill.com email address.'

Bill.com today announced that it will integrate with Expensify, provider of expense management solutions, in efforts to streamline expense reporting. Bill.com provides integrated bill payment, invoicing and cash management solutions for businesses.

Utilizing Bill.com's open API platform, the integration allows Bill.com customers to import expenses and receipts right from their mobile devices and submit PDF versions of their expense reports to their Bill.com account.

“By Integrating with Bill.com, we bring together the best names in bill payment and expense reports to provide customers with an easy, painless way to submit expense reports, while increasing accuracy and speeding up the process,” said David Barrett, CEO, Expensify.

Bill.com's new platform lets developers directly integrate applications, such as
