New App Collection Designed to Streamline T&E Processes

Isaac M. O'Bannon • Apr. 18, 2013

Concur, which makes cloud-based travel and expense management solutions, has opened the new Concur App Center, a marketplace for Concur clients and their employees.

The new App Center is designed to help businesses and business travelers find apps that deliver value to the enterprise their staff. Through the Concur App Center, web and mobile software developers can list apps that are integrated using Concur's open platform.

Through the new app center, business travelers and clients can find and evaluate applications that interact seamlessly with Concur. Examples include:

Apps for my Company: Clients can uncover turnkey solutions like those from CIBT which will automatically alert travelers if they require a Visa based on their travel plans. The Cegedim app will offer integration from Concur solutions with their global OneKey physician database to help ensure compliance with international regulations for the Life Sciences industry. Apps for Me: Users can link their Concur accounts with e-receipt providers and to apps they already love like TripIt. Additionally, through Concur Open Booking users will be able to link their accounts with travel suppliers like Avis, so reservations made on the car rental company's website flow automatically into Concur and TripItPro.

"Through the Concur T&E Cloud, our entire community can access and share information resulting in a better way to travel and to manage expenses," said Tim MacDonald, EVP of Platform and Data Services at Concur. "The uptake of partner solutions from our client community exceeds our expectations. We're thrilled with the platform adoption we're seeing from customers, suppliers, partners and
