opportunity, intended to help others build a successful payroll practice.

Apr. 26, 2013

Payroll Vault, announced today the launch of its Payroll Vault national franchise opportunity, intended to help others build a successful payroll practice while pushing Payroll Vault to a national level. Payroll Vault, which was founded by Sean Manning, CPA, provides cloud-based payroll services to small businesses.

With a Payroll Vault franchise, prospective business owners and accounting firm owners can run a payroll practice without having to start from the ground up and save money. Costs to start a payroll practice can cost approximately $50,000 and 1,300 hours of business planning and preparation, estimated Manning.

Franchisees will receive a complete franchise package, initial consultation and comprehensive training to assist in and support a successful Payroll Vault franchise launch. New owners will also receive instruction manuals and a workbook to guide them through the business startup. In addition, owners will have access to discounts from vendors and services used during the startup and life of the business.
