

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

Taija Sparkman • Aug. 08, 2013

As Associate Editor of CPA Practice Advisor, I get the opportunity to meet lots of interesting and inspiring people in the accounting profession. Some work for vendors in the profession and others are CPAs, accountants, bookkeepers, advisors, consultants. You name it. Whatever their official title, the individuals I come across usually leave a lasting impression with me.

I get to meet people that have spent their entire lives surrounded by numbers, often

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

professionals. But I also learn so much more. I learn tips and wisdom that surpass the accounting profession. I learn what it takes to be successful, how to maintain a happy work/life balance and, most importantly, how to play pool. (Thanks Doug, Isaac and Jill!)

And these lessons make me glad that I have the opportunity to interact with so many wonderful individuals outside of the office. They truly have amazing stories to tell and now I'm going to share those stories with you. In our new blog series, "Behind the Numbers," I will talk to various individuals in the profession and shine a little light on what they are like when they sign out of the accounting cloud.

And just like me, you'll find that there is more to these professionals than numbers.

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved