in the Billing and Payment Process

Isaac M. O'Bannon • Oct. 08, 2013

HAMILTON, NJ – Billing services provider Billtrust is working with the Ariba Network to integrate the Billtrust Invoice Central solution. The company says the result would make it easier for companies to drive a completely automated and secure invoice and payment process.

With the integration, buyers and sellers will be able to offer direct invoicing and remittance processing between the Billtrust billing solution and the Ariba Network, and drive increased speed, automation and visibility in the billing and payment process.

“Suppliers today are seeking flexible billing solutions,” said Bruno Perreault, Billtrust’s Senior Vice President, Invoice Central. “With this integration, we are providing the market with a seamless process for growing the use of automated invoice delivery.”

Used by more than one million companies in 190 countries to transact more than $465 billion in commerce on an annual basis, the Ariba Network is a completely open, multi-enterprise platform that enables companies to discover, connect and collaborate with customers, suppliers, and other trading partners in a more efficient and effective manner – regardless of the backend systems they may be using.

Once the integration is complete, Billtrust customers using Invoice Central by joining the Ariba Network will be able to automate the process of delivering invoices and receive payment remittance information from their customers on the Ariba Network. Ariba customers will be able to enhance the invoice information their suppliers provide and ultimately drive increased adoption of their electronic invoice
