clients be more engaged whenever, and wherever, they need to be.

The winners of the 2014 Innovation Awards are: AdvanceFlow by Thomson Reuters, CCH eSign by Wolters Kluwer CCH, QuickBooks Online by Intuit, Tallie and TrustFile by Avalara.

Five finalists were also recognized for their significant contribution to the success of professionals: The Bill.com App Center, Enterprise Access by eFileCabinet, XCMscheduling by XCM Solutions, the New Premier State Tax Library by Bloomberg BNA, and Checkpoint Pocket Assistant by Thomson Reuters.

First presented in 2004, the Innovation Awards honor new or recently enhanced technologies that benefit tax and accounting professionals and their clients through improved workflow, increased productivity, enhanced collaboration or other means.

“Technology is a constantly evolving and driving force in the accounting profession, enabling us to reach new levels of productivity, while also setting new standards for what firms can do for their clients,” said Gail Perry, CPA, Editor-in-Chief of CPA Practice Advisor.

Award recipients are selected by CPA Practice Advisor's editorial board and awards committee, which include thought leaders and professionals from across the country. The publication, along with its digital content and interactive media, is the leading independent source of practice management resources and technology information for tax and accounting professionals in public practice.

spouse and returned to the accountant frequently involved tricky choreography especially if one of the parties was traveling.

In addition to the time spent obtaining signatures, the CCH workflow study showed that accounting firms spent an average of $18 per return on direct costs to get Form 8879 delivered, signed and returned to them. The CCH eSign solution was developed to streamline the process for both the taxpayer and tax preparer as well as reduce the overall cost by nearly 75 percent.

TrustFile by Avalara

The release of Avalara TrustFile gives a new level of sales tax automation specifically for online sellers. TrustFile simplifies sales tax reporting and filing for businesses.

Users simply Import transaction history and TrustFile creates a detailed sales tax filing report. With built-in collection reports, businesses no longer need to guess if they collected the right amount, or how much they need to file. TrustFile keeps track of how much sales tax has been paid, in case of an audit, and it's free to use.

Accounting professionals serving clients who sell online can now recommend the most advanced sales tax reporting tool available today.

Companies waste 40 percent of their time on accounts payable driven by corporate expense management. Tallie simplifies this process by offering the quickest path from receipt to balance sheet. The system eliminates over 60 percent of processing time for both the front and back-end, providing time and cost savings. At its core, Tallie captures expense data from a variety of sources, minimizing the need for data entry. On a higher level, Tallie sets the standard in terms of depth of integration, ease of synchronization, and reliability of support across multiple systems. In combination with partners, Tallie completes an ecosystem of software solutions that seamlessly work together to streamline the entire expense management workflow, and better position the financial applications industry towards a model of system-to-system interoperability. These powerful partnerships work together to create a single system of record for financial data and related sources files, all beginning with the receipt.
