

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us wage transparency and ensures workers have the resources to earn a fair and equal paycheck without fear of retaliation.

Jul. 16, 2014

New Hampshire Governor Maggie Hassan signed a bill Monday that prevents wage discrimination based on a person's gender.

The N.H. Paycheck Fairness Act, or Senate Bill 207, eliminates loopholes, increases wage transparency and ensures workers have the resources to earn a fair and equal paycheck without fear of retaliation.

The bill was a priority of Senate Minority Leader Sylvia Larsen, D-Concord, and

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

The bill allows for the possibility of differences in pay based on the specific duties of a job as well as workers' experience and education.

---

Copyright 2014 – The New Hampshire Union Leader, Manchester

Accounting • Firm Management • Payroll

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved