BASIC SYSTEM FUNCTIONS

CompuPay's XpressPayroll for Accountants is an entirely web-based system that streamlines most of the payroll functions for a business into more easily understandable and performed tasks. The program is designed for a business' management to use directly, with users logging in through their web browser to an interface that offers tabbed access to key functions for payroll, employees, reports, check printing and a GL register, with each of the screens providing intuitive data-entry forms and links to additional related functions. This simplifies navigation throughout the system, whether adding new employees, entering their pay rates, setting up their direct deposit or creating custom deductions. Multiple users can access the program at the same time, but they cannot simultaneously work within the same data records, such as an employee information screen.

The XpressPayroll system supports one to five active paid employees and is priced monthly based on the frequency of the payroll runs of the employer using it. Therefore, it is intended to be used with only a set number of runs and does not directly support multiple payroll groups of different frequencies within the same business. Likewise, since it is designed for individual business use, the program does not provide processing management functions for multiple employer entities. However, multi-client reporting management tools are available through the Accountants' version of the program, which provides a single login to access individual client data. Program pricing includes tax tables and compliance reporting to federal and one state. Multi-state employees can be managed through additional services from CompuPay. Direct deposit is also included with pricing, along with the ability to distribute funds to up to two accounts per employee.

Employee data-entry screens are simple and offer multi-staff views for quick entry of

REPORTING & FILING

All of XpressPayroll's compliance functions are automatically handled by CompuPay, with the vendor filing reports and making payments to federal, state and local entities as deadlines require, and with the system alerting the user to pending payments when due dates are near. Payments are made electronically or by paper, depending on the requirements of the taxing entity. Pricing for the system is built around a model that provides automated compliance for a single state, with the ability to scale up into one of CompuPay's more powerful payroll systems if a business needs more reporting options (see www.CPATechAdvisor.com/go/XXXX for reviews of these products). Recipient copies are also managed by the vendor and are made available to employees through an online portal. The system offers reports after processing is completed, with options for labor and taxable wages, payroll check registers, earnings reports, deductions and EDT entry registers. All reports can be downloaded into Word, PDF, RTF and HTML formats, which allows for customization as desired. The system's employee data screens provide good overviews of pay, benefit, deduction and banking information, with users easily able to add and manage employees and perform quick gross-ups using a built-in calculator. 4.5

INTEGRATION/IMPORT & EXPORT

XpressPayroll offers integration with the HR, benefits, insurance and other add-on services available from CompuPay. The built-in GL export function offers quick generation of file formats that can be imported by most small business accounting systems. Time sheets provide basic overviews of employee activity but are not designed for project management or attendance purposes, and the system does not offer integration or data import from time clock systems. 3.25

HELP/SUPPORT

CLIENT SELF-SERVICE FEATURES

XpressPayroll is designed for employer managers to log in and enter time data through a secure portal, with access to reporting and employee management tools. Accountants have similar access through their login, with the ability to view payroll information and reports for each of their firm's clients. The portals are all branded as CompuPay and XpressPayroll, with an option for firm branding, although this model of payroll program is likely to be used with the client fully aware of the vendor role in the payroll relationship. For employees, the system provides secure online access to current and prior pay stubs, W-2s and other documents. 4.75

SUMMARY & PRICING

CompuPay's XpressPayroll for Accountants is designed for direct small business use, with management functions available to accounting firms. This allows the firm to keep a hand in its clients' payroll functions and provide advisory services, while outsourcing the actual processing and compliance. Pricing is based on the frequency with which the employer runs payroll, with a biweekly version with one state and all compliance reporting and payments included costing $60 per month.
