

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us combining their services and technology to help companies moving goods across borders in Latin America comply with trade and customs regulations.

Sep. 29, 2014

THOMSON REUTERS

Thomson Reuters and KPMG LLP, the U.S. audit, tax and advisory services firm, are combining their services and technology to help companies moving goods across borders in Latin America comply with trade and customs regulations.

The announcement follows the Thomson Reuters acquisition of Softway, a leading provider of global trade management software solutions across Latin America. Softway solutions helps enable companies to automate and manage complex global trade processes, comply with customs regime protocols, and help ensure tax and tariff compliance. Combined with Thomson Reuters

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us complexity,” said Doug Zuvich, Partner, Global Trade, KPMG. “When we align KPMG’s experience delivering trade and customs services with Thomson Reuters Softway technology, we offer a powerful solution for global trade management in Latin America today.”

“The ability of KPMG to offer a full range of trade compliance policy and process services combined with the ability to implement our Softway suite, helps ensure an efficient global trade management automation experience available for our customers,” said Taneli Ruda, Managing Director, Global Trade & Customs, for the Tax & Accounting business of Thomson Reuters. “By working with a collaborative team of KPMG professionals and Thomson Reuters technology experts, clients can feel confident that their trade compliance needs will be met with leading software and processes.”

Accounting • Advisory • Auditing • Automation • Firm Management • Technology

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved