to September, according to the latest ADP National Employment Report.

Oct. 01, 2014

The total number of jobs in the U.S. private sector increased by 213,000 from August to September, according to the latest ADP National Employment Report. The report, which is derived from ADP's actual payroll data, measures the change in total nonfarm private employment each month on a seasonally-adjusted basis and is produced in collaboration with Moody's Analytics.

"September's jobs added number marks the sixth straight month of employment

Mark Zandi, chief economist of Moody's Analytics, said, "Job gains remain strong and steady. The pace of job growth has been remarkably similar for the past several years. Especially encouraging most recently is the increasingly broad base nature of those gains. Nearly all industries and companies of all sizes are adding consistently to payrolls."
