Avalara. Making sales tax less taxing.

Avalara, Inc., a provider of cloud-based global VAT and other indirect tax software today announced the appointment of Richard Asquith as Vice President of Global Tax Compliance.

Asquith joins Avalara's global tax team based in the UK, and assumes responsibility for helping businesses understand and manage their tax compliance obligations as they enter or expand into new markets. As a pioneer in transaction tax management, Avalara provides a suite of solutions ranging from registration and calculation to reporting, filing and remittance, assisting businesses to become compliant in each new country they enter.

Previously, Asquith was with TMF Group, where he founded and led its global VAT transactional tax compliance offering internationally. It follows Avalara's acquisition of Zytax, a suite of automated compliance solutions for the motor fuels, petroleum products, and natural gas industry in the US and Europe. As a result, the company has expanded its global capability to include VAT and excise duty determination and compliance in Europe.

"We are delighted to have Richard join Avalara," said Kevin Riegelsberger, Chief Strategic Initiatives Officer at Avalara. "His breadth of global VAT and other transactional tax experience is a powerful resource and will play an important role in Avalara's international services to its global client base."

Richard Asquith commented, "Avalara is well established in North America and has made great progress internationally. Its simplified tax computation and reporting services is something the global market is demanding, and I am excited to help Avalara fulfil that need around the world"
