

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

the AICPA.

Jan. 12, 2015

The American Institute of CPAs (AICPA) and the Management Accounting Section of the American Accounting Association (AAA) have announced their selection for the 2015 Lifetime Contribution Award.

Professor Maher was honored for his numerous years of research and teaching of

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

misconduct have contributed to the growth of knowledge in management accounting,” said Valerie Rainey, CPA, CGMA, chair of the AICPA’s Business & Industry Executive Committee, CFO and senior vice president of corporate development and finance for INTTRA. “Recognizing the breadth and depth of Professor Maher’s work, this award is very consistent with the AICPA/CIMA’s CGMA joint venture mission to promote the science of management accounting on the global stage.”

Maher is a professor at the University of California-Davis Graduate School of Management, Davis, Calif. Maher focuses on the efficiency of recent developments in managerial accounting, including activity-based costing, benchmarking and theory constraints. He develops profiles on companies and managers that commit corporate misconduct, and studies and lectures on corporate ethics and the responsibilities of business and auditors to stakeholders.

Maher has authored more than 10 books on the principles and essentials of managerial accounting and written or edited chapters in more than 20 other publications. He has published more than 30 major articles in top academic journals. He teaches courses on managerial accounting and on using performance measurements and rewards to motivate people.

Maher has also received the AICPA Notable Contribution to the Literature Gold Medal award, Annual Professor of the Year (second year classes), University of California-Davis Graduate School of Management award and the American Accounting Association Competitive Manuscript award. Maher holds a B.B.A. from Gonzaga University, Spokane, Wash., and an M.B.A., and Ph.D. from the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash.

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us