Avalara, Inc., a provider of cloud-based compliance systems for sales tax, excise, VAT and other transactional taxes, has launched its new Avalara Returns Excise Pro. The new online service enables small to mid-sized fuel distributors, suppliers, and terminal operators to improve the accuracy, speed, and ease of filing bulk fuel tax returns, without incurring the costs related to software installation or maintenance. Returns Excise Pro makes it fast and easy to file accurate fuel tax returns, using a simple, four-step process.

Avalara Returns Excise Pro, utilizes the same platform as Avalara's flagship fuel compliance solution, Returns Excise Enterprise, but is designed for smaller companies that may file in fewer states or simply need to electronically file a return previously handled manually. Returns Excise Pro handles indirect fuel tax returns for each state

“Smaller fuel distributors and suppliers have been asking us for a compliance solution tailored to their needs,” said Matt Tormollen, EVP & GM of Avalara's Excise & CertCapture Division. “We're excited to introduce a tax automation solution that is cost-effective, while also providing comprehensive coverage for all major US federal, state, and municipal returns.”

Avalara Returns Excise Pro joins the ranks of Avalara's other trusted fuel tax solutions, Avalara AvaTax Excise and Avalara Returns™ Excise Enterprise, which automate the fuel excise tax calculation and filing process for motor fuels such as gas, diesel, biofuels, lubricants, aviation fuel, and natural gas. Avalara enables companies selling or using fuels to reduce filing costs and ensure tax compliance. Avalara has experts on staff who understand motor fuel taxation and actively follow each state and local tax authority for changes to rules, rates, and forms that are required for businesses to maintain compliance.
