Jun. 22, 2015

The National Society of Accountants (NSA) created an online petition that tax practitioners can sign to demonstrate their support for the “Tax Practitioners Bill of Rights,” which it issued on June 16.

In response to the ongoing frustration of dealing with slow service from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), the Tax Practitioner Bill of Rights calls for the right to have tax laws and rules passed in a timely manner, the right to quality service from the IRS, and the right to practice without undue IRS demands during tax filing season.

NSA President Marilyn Niwao, a CPA and attorney, said the online petition is a way to demonstrate widespread support from tax practitioners for the Tax Practitioners of our position as the champion for the rights of tax practitioners as they serve the needs of American taxpayers, 60 percent of whom hire tax practitioners to submit their tax returns. We encourage tax practitioners everywhere to sign this petition. Their broad-based support for the Tax Practitioners Bill of Rights will help us work with policymakers and the IRS to solve the problems we face.”
