VersaPay Corporation, a provider of cloud-based invoicing, accounts receivable management and payment solutions, has just announced the newest version of ARC, the Company's accounts receivable automation platform.

The enhancements introduced in this latest release reflect the experience and feedback of over 9,000 end customers that have signed up to use the platform, as well as VersaPay's strategy to continuously drive innovation and offer the best solution for online A/R in the market.

"I am very pleased to see the level of engagement our customers are exhibiting on the platform," said Craig O'Neill, CEO of VersaPay. "Much of the feedback we are receiving confirms that the system is indeed quick and easy to use, but we're also getting some great ideas to refine existing features and add new capabilities that solve real business problems. This latest version of ARC is a great example of both types of improvements: refinements that add speed and convenience, as well as some
