Sage has announced significant improvements to its Sage Live small business accounting system that enable entrepreneurs and small and medium businesses to take back control of complex operations, eliminate low-value tasks and respond more quickly to customers.

Sage Live is the cloud accounting software that enables customers to run their businesses from anywhere, with total usability across smartphones, tablets and other supported devices, ensuring all team members have access to the data they need, when they need it. Introduced in July 2015, Sage Live is continuously businesses to grow beyond their boundaries with multilanguage, multicurrency and multilegislation capabilities.

- Powerful and touchless bank accounts management. Automated bank feeds and a bank reconciliation engine bring together key business data to give complete visibility, current and projected, of cash position.

Sage Live puts real-time business insight into the right hands—bringing together finance, sales, CRM and operational data to provide businesses with a powerful, single view of their business.

Sage Live customer Donal de Paor, CEO of Veltig, said: “The combination of Salesforce and Sage Live has given the entire team a 360-degree real-time view of our service delivery, project profitability and pipeline.”

Jennifer Warawa, global vice president of product marketing, said: “Managing your business on-the-go is a common objective for business leaders, enabling greater collaboration and real-time decision making. This latest release of Sage Live delivers our customers the tools they need to be responsive to customer demands simply and from the palm of their hand.”

The new functionality is available in the latest release of Sage Live for new customers and existing customers. Sage Live will be featured at Sage Summit, the world's largest gathering of entrepreneurs and leaders of small and medium businesses, taking place July 25-28 at McCormick Palace, Chicago.
