Mar. 30, 2016

The 5th Annual Best of The National Law Journal 2016 reader rankings found KPMG LLP, the U.S. audit, tax, and advisory firm, the top service provider in four categories for the firm's global risk and investigations, forensic accounting, data and technology management and litigation valuation services. The firm was also named a top three provider in eight other categories including National Law Journal's first-ever best cyber security consultancy category.

"We are pleased to be recognized for our successful efforts in helping clients manage the risk and cost of investigations, for our leading edge forensic accounting services and for our work to help clients to manage their volumes of data and new technologies. We constantly strive to serve our clients by helping them prevent, detect and respond to all forms of misconduct and to manage the challenges and disruption that litigation and enforcement actions present," said Richard H. Girgenti, National and Americas Leader for Forensic Advisory Services for KPMG LLP. "This recognition also validates our work to make the discovery process more cost-effective and defensible and to help our clients protect and preserve their data."
