Apr. 12, 2016

Avalara, Inc. a provider of tax compliance automation for business, has announced general availability of its extension for the leading ecommerce platform, Magento, 2.0. Since 2011, Avalara has partnered with Magento to provide customers with an integrated, automated solution for calculating sales tax in real-time, for each line item generated in Magento.

Avalara has been integrated with Magento for five years, and was named a Magento Gold Partner in 2011. With this latest version of the Avalara extension for Magento 2.0, customers can seamlessly take advantage of Avalara's Compliance Cloud platform innovations for all of their sales tax calculation needs. Avalara helps reduce the tedious work and complexity of calculating sales taxes for millions of products and services across the U.S., Canada, Europe, and dozens of other international jurisdictions, giving customers more time to focus on driving their own business success. In addition, Magento users can add Avalara's tax return preparation, filing, and remittance services.

Marshal Kushniruk, executive vice president of business development at Avalara said, "This integration is another strong proof point in a longstanding and rewarding partnership with Magento. Our multi-faceted relationship includes this latest integration, sponsorship and exhibition at Imagine 2016, more than 1,000+ mutual customers and more than 300 partners in the Magento ecosystem. We are delighted to be a vibrant part of Magento 2.0."

For more than a decade, Avalara has pioneered innovations in tax compliance for
