In 2015, I was promoted to director in the audit department of MBAF. This was a very proud moment for me, as it made me one of the youngest directors at the firm.

Working now on some of our most significant accounts, I strive to continue to make a vital contribution to MBAF's success. I provide direct supervision to the firm's professional staff conducting audits and reviews of financial statements, with a focus on condominium associations, mixed-use developments, cooperative housing corporations, and timeshare and resort associations. A career highlight would have to be, when I was able to apply my expertise in forensic accounting and the cyber security field to plan and organize MBAF's Cybercrime event in March 2017. I am also particularly proud of the work I do helping women in the accounting field get the professional development they need by serving on the Executive Committee of the Women of MBAF internal network.
