

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

Leaders

With more than 2,000 people in 13 states, Dixon Hughes Goodman ranks among the nation's top 20 public accounting firms. Offering comprehensive assurance, tax and advisory services, the firm focuses on major industry lines and serves clients in all 50

...

Apr. 25, 2018

With the #MeToo movement and conversation around anti-harassment continuing, the top 20 U.S. accounting firm Dixon Hughes Goodman and its leaders are also addressing the important topic both internally and externally. Through a company-wide live broadcast panel discussion, team meetings, in-person discussion and a post

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us partners across all DHG locations.

“Anti-harassment is an incredibly relevant and important topic that we felt strongly about addressing with our people while sharing a clear picture of our own culture of respect,” said Effin Logue, Chief People Officer. “The leaders participating in the discussion spoke from personal experience and offered terrific perspective for our people to use in their own careers and personal lives.”

“The broadcast allowed our team members to come together as a group to watch and share our own thoughts and experiences around harassment,” said Daniel Sanders, Partner. “We were able to take what we had just heard from our leaders and transition to a follow up discussion that led to great conversation and many ideas about how to practically apply what we just heard about harassment in the workplace.”

In addition to the March panel discussion, CEO Matt Snow recently released the latest installment of his CEO Blog, titled “#MeToo – Fostering a Culture of Respect.” In the post, Matt shares key takeaways from the broadcast while touching on DHG’s intent to ensure that all team members have what they need to progress and build valuable careers.

With more than 2,000 people in 13 states, Dixon Hughes Goodman ranks among the nation’s top 20 public accounting firms. Offering comprehensive assurance, tax and advisory services, the firm focuses on major industry lines and serves clients in all 50 states as well as internationally.

Advisory • Firm Management

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us