recognized by research firm Gartner as a Top 10 offering in the Expense Management marketplace for the second year in a row.

Sep. 19, 2018

Itemize, the expense management app powered by artificial intelligence, has been recognized by research firm Gartner as a Top 10 offering in the Expense Management marketplace for the second year in a row.

Reflecting the artificial intelligence platform's ability to improve as it processes more volume, Itemize advanced in the ranking this year, moving up four slots to number four.

Itemize is fueled by feedback from users, both in terms of training the platform for accuracy and directing innovation. Based on this key customer input, Itemize will be launching a number of exciting new features in the fourth quarter. Key among these is a 99 percent accuracy guarantee on every document processed by the system. Users can add paper and digital receipts to their expense ledger and be assured that their expenses are correct.

Today, Itemize supports users in over 25 countries and processes more than a million documents a month through its cloud-based platform. James Thomas, Founder and CEO added, "It's great to receive this recognition from Gartner, validating our approach to harnessing technology to put an end to piles of paper and expense reports generated at the photocopier."
