consulting services complements Baker Tilly's industry specialization – especially in manufacturing and distribution, private equity, healthcare, real estate and international services.

“There is genuine respect and a strong cultural alignment between MCG and Baker Tilly,” Gary Boyd, MCG managing partner said. “Each firm has an entrepreneurial spirit that brings together exceptional talent and complementary skillsets with a focus on people and a commitment to maximizing client value.”

In October 2018, Baker Tilly announced its combination with MiddletonRaines+Zapata (MRZ), a Houston-area accounting and advisory firm. Allan D. Koltin, CEO of Koltin Consulting Group, advised on both combinations.

“I’ve been consulting to accounting firms for close to four decades and can’t recall a firm that grew as fast organically as MCG. Equally impressive is the outstanding talent and leadership they have been able to attract,” Koltin said. “Baker Tilly is well on their way to becoming a national powerhouse – while keeping their entrepreneurial culture and passion for serving clients. These fundamentals shared by MCG is ultimately what brought the two firms together.”
