CPA Practice Advisor

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

Comy

Embark's inaugural GALf clinic, along with First Tee of Austin, brought together 15 female business leaders. The clinic was specifically designed for novice players where they learned golf basics, etiquette and skills from a female golf pro, followed ...

Jun. 24, 2019

No stranger to being a healthy disruptor in the professional services industry, Embark now has its eyes set on breaking barriers on the golf course. Just recently, Embark's Vice President of Business Development Leigh Edwards launched GALf, a

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us often don't have anyone to play with.

"At Embark, we are all about building relationships and solving problems which is why creating GALf felt so natural," said Leigh. "I quickly realized why golf is such an effective relationship building tool. My male colleagues that played understood this value and were able to benefit from something I couldn't. Women should feel like it's an option for them too and be just as confident. As a newcomer, it was intimidating. I want other women who are intrigued by the sport, and more importantly, interested in fostering new relationships, to be welcomed by a supportive community."

Embark's inaugural GALf clinic, along with First Tee of Austin, brought together 15 female business leaders. The clinic was specifically designed for novice players where they learned golf basics, etiquette and skills from a female golf pro, followed by a hands-on practice. In addition to monthly GALf games, Leigh will host quarterly breakfasts because as she says, "Great women should know other great women."

Accounting • Firm Management

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved