and learn from world-class accountants, engineers, product managers, and designers, all focused on making the lives of tax accountants easier and solving their pain points.

I am a CPA and CFP and have earned undergraduate and graduate degrees in accounting from Brigham Young University.

I will be forever indebted to the great mentors I have had at BYU, PwC, Goldman Sachs, and Canopy. I am grateful for the things they have taught me and for the many opportunities they have given me, including opportunities to earn relevant credentials, scale both onshore and offshore teams, and work overseas.

The most important work I do is at home, where my wife and I are the proud parents of five children.
