

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

2019 considered it a major part of the American Dream. However, millennials are struggling to reach that financial milestone.

Jan. 13, 2020

The majority of millennials not only want to own a home, but 84% of millennials in 2019 considered it a major part of the American Dream. However, millennials are struggling to reach that financial milestone.

According to the Urban Institute, nearly 10% fewer millennials own homes than their Gen X and baby boomer counterparts at the same age.

For the generation who stepped into adulthood in the wake of the Great Recession, many financial goals are delayed because they spent more on their education, took longer to establish careers and families, and trudged through stagnant wages.

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

Facing.

To learn more about the illusive millennial, we conducted our second annual Home Buyer Survey. We surveyed 1,000 Americans who planned to purchase a home in 2020. Respondents answered 21 questions about their finances, plans, and desires related to their future home.

Specific detail about the methodology and a link to the survey can be found in the methodology section at the end of this report.

Read the 2020 Millennial Home Buyer Report.

=====

Francesca Ortegren is a Research Associate at Clever Real Estate, the free online service that connects you with top agents to save money on commissions. She focuses on helping people understand complex data, real estate, finances, business, and the economy by researching various topics, analyzing data, and reporting useful insights for general consumption. Before working at Clever, Francesca earned her PhD in Cognitive Psychology from Texas Tech University, conducted behavioral research on memory, learning, and teaching, and taught college-level research methods and statistics courses.

Payroll • Small Business

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks LLC. All rights reserved.

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us