Keiter, the largest, independent Certified Public Accounting firm in Central Virginia, announces that it has donated $11,000 to Richmond-area not-for profit organizations as part of its “A Bright Future Serving the Community” campaign. The donations mark the conclusion of a year-long celebration honoring the firm’s 40th anniversary of serving clients in the Greater Richmond region, across Virginia, and throughout the United States. The four organizations that received donations included: Lewis Ginter Botanical Garden, Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, the Massey Cancer Center, and Richmond Animal League.

“All of us at Keiter are humbled by the amazing support we’ve received from our friends in the business, not-for-profit, and public service communities over the past year,” said Gary Wallace, CPA, Managing Partner at Keiter. “Over the past 40 years, Keiter has redefined what it means to be an accountant by creating lasting and trusted relationships with our clients that have translated into our role as their Opportunity Advisors. We look forward to continuing that tradition in the Richmond community over the next 40 years.”

Keiter was founded on December 1, 1978 by Robert Keiter, Bill Stephens, Carroll Hurst, Ted Gary, and Bub Shreaves. Since that time, the firm has grown substantially and earned a national reputation for its work and client service in the fields of assurance, consulting and advisory, and taxation services. The firm now represents
