

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us industry organizations, the NSA opted to deliver an independent response. NSA's suggestions draw from decades of advocacy and a strong relationship with the IRS, the ...

Feb. 23, 2020

The National Society of Accountants (NSA) has responded to an IRS request for comments on the proposed IRS restructuring contained in the Taxpayer First Act (TFA). The suggestions come as a response to the solicitation for industry commentary presented at the Taxpayer First Act discovery meeting held on January 15, 2020 which was attended by NSA and other national organizations.

While given the opportunity to be signatory on a letter drafted by various other industry organizations, the NSA opted to deliver an independent response. NSA's suggestions draw from decades of advocacy and a strong relationship with the IRS,

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

- leveraging communications and input from tax practitioners, and
- support for the development of a tax practitioner-specific service unit within the IRS.

“NSA’s membership of tax and accounting professionals appreciates the opportunity to provide input in the process and we welcome the open dialogue environment the IRS has established. We are committed to assisting the agency in any way possible... to achieve the requirements of the TFA,” wrote NSA CEO John Rice. “We stand ready to help.”

Download a copy of NSA’s response to the IRS here:

<https://www.nsacct.org/viewdocument/irs-suggestions-for-irs-restructuri>

Advisory

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved