

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us

The new Portfolio analyzes active credits and common credit attributes and mechanics, while also going beyond tax credits to non-credit and even non-tax incentives that states and the federal government use to encourage investment and influence public ...

Mar. 03, 2020

Bloomberg Tax

Bloomberg Tax & Accounting has released its new Credits and Incentives: Multistate Considerations and Planning, a new Tax Management Portfolio that provides a detailed overview of the full range of state and federal tax credits and incentives. The Portfolio, which was authored by Mark Nachbar, Chris Potter, and Joe Stachnik of Ryan, is currently available on the Bloomberg Tax platform for subscribers.

The new Portfolio analyzes active credits and common credit attributes and mechanics, while also going beyond tax credits to non-credit and even non-tax incentives that states and the federal government use to encourage investment and influence public behavior. The treatise also focuses on how states approach incentive

Hello. It looks like you're using an ad blocker that may prevent our website from working properly. To receive the best experience possible, please make sure any blockers are switched off and refresh the page.

If you have any questions or need help you can email us said Christine Boeckel, Director of State Tax Analysis & Content, Bloomberg Tax & Accounting. “The team from Ryan has done an incredible job developing a treatise that will provide tax professionals a more complete understanding of tax credits and incentives. This intelligence will help corporations determine whether to take advantage of tax credits and incentives, and just as importantly, how to go about doing so.”

The authors will be sharing the latest developments related to state tax credits and incentives—including current trends such as increased transparency and compliance requirements—on a complimentary Webinar, The Everchanging Landscape of State Tax Credits and Incentives, taking place Tuesday, March 10 at 2:00 p.m. Eastern Time. They will be joined by State Tax Practice Lead Emilie Burnette and State Tax Analyst Kevin Thayer of Bloomberg Tax & Accounting. For more information and to register, visit <http://onb-tax.com/FDof50yyJ3G>.

CPA Practice Advisor is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors.

© 2024 Firmworks, LLC. All rights reserved