From the 2020 reviews of professional tax preparation systems.

ProSeries Tax from Intuit is best suited for small to mid-sized accounting firms that need to prepare both personal and business forms for clients. ProSeries Tax currently offers two plans: Basic, for firms that only prepare 1040 forms, and Professional, for firms that need to prepare both personal and business returns. ProSeries Basic plan does not currently offer cloud accessibility, however the Professional plan can be accessed on the cloud for an additional fee.

What's New

New for the 2019 tax year, ProSeries Tax users will be able to quickly undo or redo previous data entry. The addition of this feature provides users with the ability to quickly create tax scenarios for clients and quickly undo them when necessary. Users can now lock prepared returns in order to eliminate unauthorized changes, with the application able to detect changes in calculations. When a change is detected, the e-filing process will be automatically stopped in order to ensure changes are accurate, with users able to then e-file the locked returns.

The eSignature feature has also been updated, with real time notifications available so users can see when clients sign documents. The eSignature feature also includes a status dashboard to check the status of any document that needs a signature.

In addition, ProSeries has made it easier to create client letters, adding 18 new standard letters including an updated engagement letter, an amendment letter, and a Spanish client letter.
