Rippling Payroll is designed to automate the entire payroll process, with users able to customize the system to suit their needs. With HR data synced automatically with payroll, users can run payroll with limited data entry needed. The main screen features a vertical menu bar to the left of the screen that offers access to all payroll related functions, with a to-do list as well as access to all linked apps available from the main screen as well. In addition, the application offers features such as the Instant Pay Run Comparison, which allows users to quickly compare the upcoming pay run with the prior run, making it easy to spot discrepancies, and correct them if necessary. Users can run salaried and hourly employees separately and can import time data directly into the application if desired. Also available in Rippling Payroll is a Job Codes feature that allows users to track employee time by multiple dimensions including location, client, or task, with the ability to change employee pay rates for employees that perform multiple jobs.

Rippling Payroll also includes a paperless component, allowing users to manage employee files such as offer letters, agreements, I-9s and W-4s online in the documents feature. Manual paychecks can be recorded in Rippling Payroll, but the application does not include after-the-fact payroll capability.

Rippling Payroll offers a good selection of built-in reports including a Journal Report and a Transactions Report which can be processed after each payroll. The application also includes trend reports, a headcount report, and a cash requirement report for funding payroll. Rippling Payroll users can also create custom reports in the application, with all reports able to be exported to Microsoft Excel, or saved as a PDF.

Rippling Payroll offers data syncing with more than 500 apps including popular accounting software applications such as QuickBooks and NetSuite, as well as time tracking applications such as TSheets and Deputy. The application also offers a an option to visit the Help Center for how-to-guides, FAQs, and video tutorials. There is also an option to access the support team via email.

Rippling Payroll is a scalable employee management platform well suited for businesses with 2-500 employees. The base price for Rippling Payroll is $35 per month, with a $8-$10 per employee charge for the employee management platform and an $8-$10 per employee charge for the payroll module. Various add-on options such as the HR Help Desk and App Management modules are also available at an additional cost.
