Trump often targeted these connections during the 2020 presidential campaign.

The investigation hasn't implicated President Biden in any way although he has reportedly advised family members to be careful in their business dealings due to increased scrutiny.

Both the IRS and the FBI were eyeing Hunter Biden prior to the announcement, but this information wasn't released until after the election. Because the Department of Justice is banned from affecting the outcome of an election, former Attorney General William Barr chose to delay the news. Trump had been a booster of Barr, who has since fallen into disfavor with the ex-president due to this decision.

According to CNN and various other media sources, the investigation is far-ranging, including inquiries into potential tax violations resulting from Hunter Biden's international dealings. Some of Biden's connections have been linked to other investigations. For his part, Biden has acknowledged the reports as being very serious, but has maintained that he is "100% certain" that he will be exonerated.

Expect to hear more about this matter in the near future. We will continue to monitor developments.
