EY has announced an extension of the alliance with Wolters Kluwer to include the CCH Tagetik corporate performance management (CPM) solution and EY Advisory S.p.A (EY Italy), harnessing the power of data to help create opportunities for businesses to drive performance and provide long-term service. The Alliance has also been activated in Belgium with additional global expansion over time.

The requirement for products to support financial and operational planning, as well as financial and management consolidation, is on the rise because there is an increasing demand for finance process automations.

Wolters Kluwer, with its award-winning CCH Tagetik expert solution, is recognized as a market leader, providing corporate finance professionals with comprehensive software solutions that streamline financial close and consolidation, financial and integrated business planning as well as regulatory compliance. EY teams are experienced in financial consolidation, planning and budgeting, data integration, taxation, data management and CPM implementation for multiple sectors. Together, they support organizations looking to accelerate their financial transformation initiatives.

The EY-CCH Tagetik Alliance offers extensive support to large financial transformations, covering a broader set of digitally enabled services on a single platform for finance data and operational planning. The CCH Tagetik platform
